

HOME HAPPENINGS

—Canfield public schools open next Monday morning.

—Labor Day locally was observed by only a few business places.

—Last Saturday Canfield faced a coal famine. Not a pound of coal yards.

—The board of education has placed the sale of all school books with F. A. Morris.

—A stated communication of Argus Masonic lodge will be held this (Friday) evening.

—Teachers here last week declared that the institute was the best ever held in the county.

—The Canfield Community Library will be open Tuesday, Sept. 12, instead of Saturday, Sept. 9.

—The regular meeting of Dublin garage has been postponed until Tuesday evening, Sept. 19.

—Well, the big fair is over and Canfield will now settle down to the ordinary tenor of her way.

—People will sweat when they pay their coal bills this fall. And that may help to cut down the purchase of coal.

—The first soaking rain in several weeks came to this section last Friday afternoon and growing crops were greatly benefited.

—With a strong corps of teachers in the county normal and public schools work the coming year can hardly fail to be most satisfactory.

—Council met Monday night and ordered all bills paid that had accumulated during the past two months while the village treasury was empty.

—The Ohio State Telephone Co. on Tuesday cut in two additional lines between Youngstown and Canfield and the service has since been greatly improved.

—A high wind accompanied last Friday afternoon's rain storm and a considerable number of fruit and ornamental trees were damaged and some uprooted.

—A meeting of the Canfield Citizens' Union will be held at the normal building next Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock. It is hoped that every member will be present.

—Canfield has had three consecutive days of rain. The first came the chautauque, then the county teachers' institute and last the big fair of the year.

—The first drunken woman seen in Canfield in many a day staggered up the road from the fair grounds Wednesday evening, hundreds of automobiles as they shot by barely missing her.

—The normal college trustees have decided the normal property to the board of education and next year a fine high school and normal building will be erected on the site of the present structure.

—Work has been started on a gas well on J. R. Finnegan's farm near the fair grounds. The Canfield gas & Electric Co. hope to be able to put down several additional wells before bad weather sets in.

—Civil war time prices now prevail for many commodities used in the home. Flour, potatoes, beans, in fact, everything to eat, are much higher than ever before in the memory of the present generation.

—Complaints come from several parts of the village that the ordinance prohibiting chickens running at large is not being observed. It is not unlikely that formal complaints will be filed with the authorities.

—Last Saturday the retail price of Irish potatoes jumped from $2 to $2.50 a bushel. Sweet potatoes sold at six pounds for a quarter. This is probably the first time that sweet potatoes ever brought less than Irish potatoes.

—Silvio Ruscitto announces that on and after Sept. 16 he will increase the price of hair cuts from 20c to 25c and shaves from 10c to 15c. This is the first advance in barbering prices in this place in many years and is attributed to the high cost of living and doing business.

—M. J. Gilmore of Youngstown, state inspector in charge of the construction of the Canfield-Salem road, announces that the road will be thrown open to traffic in about a week. The Dispatch is authoritatively informed that this piece of work is the finest water bound macadam in Mahoning county.

—Through the untiring efforts of county school superintendent Jerome Hull and the board of education during the vacation months the county normal school has been secured for Canfield for the coming year. A canvass for students is being made and indications are that the attendance will be much larger than last year.

—While Mr. and Mrs. E. N. Dyball of Youngstown, formerly of Canfield, were returning home Monday from Detroit with a new automobile, which was to have been exhibited at the fair here this week, another machine struck their auto, completely demolishing it. Both occupants of the car were badly injured and are now in Lakeside hospital, Cleveland.

—Joseph M. Justice of Canfield and Miss Ruby Ford were united in marriage August 22 at the home of the bride's uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Starr Ford, in Williamsfield, Rev. L. H. Davis, pastor of the First Congregational church, performing the ceremony. The bride was daintily gowned in cream lace over blue silk and her wedding flowers were white roses. Mr. Justice has for some time been a popular clerk in the Co-op Co. store. Next Monday he will go to Ellsworth to take charge of the village schools. The happy couple will reside near Ellsworth.

—At a meeting of the board of education Monday evening the services of Miss May McClain of Mt. Vernon, Ohio, were secured as director of the county normal school for the ensuing year. Miss McClain is an educator of wide and varied experience and comes with the strongest endorsement of both Mr. Pearson, superintendent of state department of public schools and county superintendent of schools Jerome Hull. The board of education feels that it is extremely fortunate in securing Miss McClain and believes that with the hearty co-operation of the county and state educational departments she will keep up the high standard for which Canfield schools have always been noted.

NEIGHBORHOOD NEWS

Steps have been taken to build a new town hall at Church Hill.

—Two strong gas wells have been drilled in on the farm of Charles Israel near Westville.

—In Alliance hair cuts cost 35c and 40c. In Canfield the price is to be increased from 20c to 25c, which is decidedly modest considering the prices charged elsewhere.

—The Ford Motor Co. has some gold mine. For the year ending August 1 the profit was $59,994,118, or more than a million dollars a week. The total number of cars employed in all the Ford plants is 49,870.

—A band of gypsies traveled over Columbiana county in an automobile and the women of the party succeeded in picking up considerable money by turning clever tricks on people not wise to the ways of the world.

—The Ohio state fair held in Columbus last week attracted large crowds. On account of the threatened railroad strike the fair practically closed Thursday as exhibitors were permitted to remove displays so that they could be shipped home before the strike order became effective.

—Miss Clara Baker and Ted Buzard, well known young people of Columbiana, were united in marriage last Saturday at the home of the bride, Rev. E. P. Wyckoff performing the ceremony. The couple will reside in Cleveland where the groom has a position with Guardian Savings & Trust Co.

—When the Ohio legislature passed a law exempting stock of Ohio corporations from taxation, upon the supposition that the companies would pay on their stock issues instead of the individual owners of stocks, the members of the law-making body did not know what the manufacturers were putting over on them.

—The big event of Tuesday was devoted to receiving and arranging exhibits. All available space in halls was taken so that when the gates opened Wednesday morning the show was large and fine. On Wednesday all children under 15 years of age were admitted free and the youngsters, thousands of them, were there in all their glory. The attendance Thursday was large but somewhat smaller than Wednesday. The crowds came largely in automobiles and thousands of cars were parked in and near the grounds.

—A feature Thursday was the live stock parade and the fine animals in it attracted much attention. The agricultural, floral, mercantile and farm machinery displays were good. Many makes of automobiles were shown under tents and interested thousands of visitors. Music was furnished by three bands. The midway furnished entertainment for everybody.

—As usual, interest centered in the races each afternoon, thousands witnessing the fine sport. Following is the summary:

"I'm gonna live here," said the little boy with the smudgy streak across his nose and one sleeve of his waist torn from wrist to shoulder.

"That's all right if you ain't bad," replied the little boy the other side of the fence, hanging onto his volley ball and sizing up the new neighbor curiously.

"C'mon over."
"Nope."
"Fraid I'll muss your clothes!"
"Nope."
"Won'tcher mother'n father let yuh?"

"They ain't my mother and father. My mother and father are dead. These are my 'dopted father and mother. They 'dopted me out of a orphan asylum."

"I wouldn't be a 'dopted kid."
"You couldn't. You got a father an' mother."

"Bet my father can lick your father."

"Bet he can't. 'Dopted kids is always better than kids the angels bring. When the angels bring a kid his father an' mother don't have no say, but 'dopted kids is picked out. My 'dopted father and mother could have had a dozen kids like you, but they didn't want a common kid, so they kept lookin' an' after a while they choosed me."

"Did your folks pick you out, sure?"
"Yes, sir; they went all thru the orphan 'ylum and looked at all the kids there was, 'bout a hundred, I reckon, an' ever' one that looked like you they turned down, an' then just as they was about to go away they saw me, and so they picked me out and brought me home. And I drink a whole bottle of milk before dinner and I can have all the milk I want."

"Bet you can't have any more than I can. We got a cow full of milk, and my father takes out all we want every time my mother tells him to."

"I don't like milk that comes out of an animal. Our milk is made in a factory and put up in bottles like pop."

"Huh, bottle milk don't make you strong. You ain't got a muscle like that!"

"But I got an indoor baseball and a bat and a catchin' mitt and a mask. And my 'dopted mother reads me story books, an' my father tells me stories, and I'll bet yours don't. Fathers and mothers has to pick you out to 'preciate you."

"Bet I know why they picked you out."

"So do I. They—"

"They picked you out because they wanted a girl, and they thought you was one."

"No they didn't; they picked me out because I'm not like you, and I've got a lot of things, and I can have everything I want, an'—"

"I bet I can climb over the fence and lick you!"

"I've got to go in now; it is time for my afternoon nap, and I am afraid I've had a bad little boy."

"You bet I'm bad," said the boy with the smudged nose, making a fist, "and when I ketch you out you're goin' to get this."

She Wasn't Sure.

A Chicago vegetarian engaged a German cook not long ago. His wife liked the appearance of the applicant, her references were good and the wages she demanded not exorbitant.

"I'd like to have you come," said the lady of the house, "but perhaps you won't like to live with us. We are vegetarians and never have any meat in the house. Would you be satisfied with a vegetable diet?"

The fraulein scratched her head. "Vell," she said, dubiously, "iss beer a vegetable?"

The Name Was Correct

In New York a new teacher found that a little negro girl was named Fertilizer Johnson.

"Are you sure that Fertilizer is your right name?" she asked.

"Yes ma'am," replied the little girl.

"Well, tell your mother to come here," said the teacher.

The mother came the next day.

"Yes, Fertilizer is right," she said.

"You see, I named her after her father and mother both. Her father's name is Ferdinand and my name is Liza, so we called her Fertilizer."

He Asked to Know

A wandering magician was giving a sleight of hand exhibition at a summer hotel.

"Can any lady or gentleman in the audience lend me a ten dollar gold piece?" he asked.

"On vot?" eagerly shouted a pawnbroker.—Puck.

Studies in Archaeology

"What did you find in that supposed Indian mound?"

"Some rare specimens of pottery."

"Any inscriptions? The inscription often fixes the date."

"One bore the inscription 'Made in Kalamazoo.'"

Chords of Sympathy

First Clubwoman—"I noticed you talking to that old bore. Did she get on to her ailments?"

Second Clubwoman—"Yes. You might almost call it an organ recital."

The Test

Medium—"The spirit of your wife is here now; do you wish to speak to her thru me?"

Widower—"Ask her where the dickens she put my summer underwear."

Frech-Schafer

The many friends of Arthur Schafer and Miss Anna Frech will be pleased to hear of their marriage which took place Wednesday evening at the residence of Rev. Hensel in West Austintown. The bride is a very popular young lady of Lowellville while Mr. Schafer is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Schafer of North Jackson. After a short trip to Indiana and other places they will go to housekeeping on the groom's farm. A host of friends wish them a long and happy journey through life.
